Synopsis : A former cop, believed by many, including his family to have been killed in action years ago, operates secretly, killing people at the orders of the corrupt police chief of the city. Under the cover of a high-end app-cab driver, the insomniac ex-cop Uday Shetty alias Kennedy looks for targets in Covid-era Mumbai, while also seeking someone with whom he has a few scores to settle. The neo-noir crime thriller is the latest from the stable of Anurag Kashyap of Gangs of Wasseypur fame.

Director's Biography : Anurag Singh Kashyap born on 10th September, 1972, is an Indian film director and screenwriter known for his gritty and dark thrillers and crime fiction. Considered as one of the most prominent among new-age Bollywood filmmakers boldly experimenting with genres and techniques, Kashyap came to limelight with Black Friday (2005) and went on to make critically acclaimed movies such as Dev D (2009), That Girl in Yellow Boots (2011) and his two-part crime saga Gangs of Wasseypur (2012).
